CRIME FOLLOWED LAQUOR RAID

Negroes Arrested Were Defense Witnesses in Trial—Friends of Official Feared He Would Be Victim of Revenge Act.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

SUFFOLK, Dec. 18.—Following a raid on two copper stills in Isle of Wight County, Tuesday night in which Special Officer J. C. Ashby participated, Mr. Ashby and his family were awakened Thursday night to find both of their barns in flames.

Quick investigation showed that the fires were of incendiary origin, both barns being fired from the corners, and tracks of men were noticed about the scene.

Mr. Ashby lost both barns, all of his fodder and corn, farming implements and a valuable cow, and had his horses badly scorched before they could be rescued.

He immediately telephoned to Suffolk for the Branch bloodhounds, which were at the place in three hours.

No one had been allowed near the burned buildings, and the dogs at once took the trail, and started off towards the woods to a shanty, no one was found in the shanty, and two days before Mr. Ashby had been one of a party of officers to raid a still.

From that point they went on to a negro house, where eight or ten negro men were found, some on the steps, some in chairs asleep and some upstairs.

The dogs did not stop at the stairs, but made a leap for upstairs and picked out two men.

These two were Rock Bettow and Charlie Reed, both of whom had been witnesses for the defense in a liquor trial just days prior to the burning of Mr. Ashby's barns.

The dog evidence, with the shoe measurements, and other strong circumstantial evidence made out a good case against them, and they were arrested and placed in Isle of Wight jail. It is known that friends of Mr. Ashby have feared that he might meet with some mischief at the hands of the lawbreakers.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Store and goods were insured, but, household furniture and other things of the occupant were not, and are a total loss. The fire is supposed to have been the work of incendiary, as there had been threats, but there is no clue to the perpetrator.

AMUSEMENTS

"Three Wise Fools" at Academy.

"Three Wise Fools" Austin Strong's brilliant comedy, of which so much has been heard, will be the uncommon attraction at the Academy tonight Tuesday and Wednesday, and Wednesday matinee. This is the only company on tour. Under the management of John Golden, producer of "Lightnin'," "The First Year," "Dear Me," "Turn of Mind," "Right," "Thank You" and other successes, it established a record of 333 consecutive performances at the criterion theater in New York City, with both lengthy runs and repeat engagements in Chicago and Boston.

The story is unique—the three wise fools are three old cronies who live together in a fashionable house in Washington Square, New York, since the residential section of Gotham's most exclusive personages. These three old chaps, one a retired flautist, one a physician and one a lawyer, live by rote. They have a regular time for doing everything; they drink a glass of hot milk at a stipulated hour each night; they eat an apple at a certain time each evening; they play solitaire at a regular time each day, and they have certain dishes served at each meal during each day of the week. They simply live in the past, holding sacred the memory of one girl, who was wooed and lost by each when they were lads. So the three staid, conservative men become upon this one topic three wise fools.

The arrival of a young ward, bequeathed them by a dying mother, their old sweetheart, revolutionizes their mode of living and transforms them. The many dramatic incidents and startling surprises make the comedy vividly interesting.

Holiday Show at Lyric Today.

The holiday season will begin at the Lyric today with one of the gayest vaudeville shows brought to Richmond by Manager Charles W. Rex this year. Several big features from the Keith metropolitan houses have been secured for each of the two bills to be presented this week. All Madge Kennedy Here This Week.

As is invariably the case when a Henry W. Savage production is advertised, theatergoers may be assured of good measure. This time, the season's end to the Academy Friday and Saturday, and Saturday matinee, his brilliant and beautiful young star, Madge Kennedy, in last winter's Astor Theater, New York, success, "Cornered." The play was written by Dodson Mitchell, noted alike as an actor and author, and is a comedy-drama in four acts.

"Cornered" provides Miss Kennedy with the best play and most striking part of her career. She is seen in a dual role which combines drama with comedy, and keeps the audience guessing in its lightning changes.

The supporting cast will be the same that was associated with the young star in New York, and includes Leslie Austin, Maude Leone, Max Walzman, Amelia Gardner, Tom Walsh, Robert Forsythe, Wanda Frederick, Clark G. Hoover, Tom Gunn, Alma Tremayne, Cecil Owen, Frank Grayson, Joseph V. Tuller, Timothy Kane and others.
